TORONTO — Palm Holdings Canada has purchased the Quality Suites London, in Ontario; it will be owned and operated by Palm Holdings' affiliated companies.

“London has a strong institutional base with many government and educational establishments, as well as an economy with significant industrial, technological and agricultural sectors, so creating a hotel experience that caters to the specific needs of our corporate customers is important for this location,” said Paul Sutton, VP of Operations, Palm Holdings Canada. “Along with the hotel’s close proximity to the downtown core and Highway 401, London is the perfect location for Palm Holdings to expand our business-centred brand.”

Quality Suites London features 118 suites, a lounge and breakfast area, meeting facilities and Wi-Fi. Conveniently located off Wellington Road South and Highway 401, the hotel is a short drive from downtown London and Western University.
